THE UX THAILAND CONFERENCE 2019

A two-day conference for people who build world-class products.

Sponsorship information

Our vision: Empower locally, recognised globally.

Our vision is for Thailand to be seen globally as a leader of great design for its citizens and the world. To do this, UXTH was born to upskill and inspire the community.

UX Thailand is a non-profit organisation that began as a series of monthly meet-ups, focused on empowering the local community to do better design. Our conference is born to inspire and upskill but also to be recognised globally for this event.

The money that is made is invested in further empowering the local community. We'll use the revenue to provide more regular events like our monthly meetup, training courses throughout the year and hope to build relationships across APAC.

Our vision: Empower locally, recognised globally.

The UX Thailand Conference was created to compliment our existing efforts throughout the year with the goal to upskill and inspire both the local and global communities. To be an affordable event that brought the highest quality of line-ups. With your help, we'll succeed on achieving this.

About The UX Thailand Conference 2019

A two-day conference for people who build world-class products.

For 2019, we're bringing a folks from across the world who've pioneered the design and product industry. From Jared Spool, often thought of as a founder of user experience design to Melissa Perri, an author on product management. We'll also have practitioners, including locals from Thailand.

The UX Thailand conference is a two-day event made up of thought-provoking presentations, hands-on workshops and engaging discussion. Targeted at anyone who wants to build world-class products and services.

DAY 1: INSPIRE

A day of inspiring presentations from some of the industries leading minds, aiming to provoke thoughts and ideas for you to take back to your projects and organisations.

DAY 2: HANDS-ON

A selection of practical, hands-on workshops for you to put theory into practice, learning new skills and techniques to help you drive more customer value.

We're bringing thought-leaders from across the globe:
